

It won't be long till the chase is over, it won't be long till the serenof Europe will all be freed from the cruel Hun. But over here there's a job still left, is a job that is styled a soft job and it's a job of bonds that he must be putting it all the cold ones free. So keep on picking up and victory, the job is yours

 the job is mine, keep buying bonds

VON RUNDSTEDT TAKEN PRISONER

Deposed Former Western Front
Commander Is Captured By Seventh Army

By HERB PLAMBECK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY May 2.—Field Marshal Karl Gerd Von Rundstedt, deposed former commander-in-chief of German armies on the western front, was captured today by troops of the American Seventh Army.

The German Marshal forced into retirement soon after the ill-fated German counter-offensive against the American First Army in the Ardennes last December, was taken into custody by units of the U. S. 26th Division.

Taken At Bad Tolz

He was scooped up in the town of Bad Tolz by the forces of Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch driving into the southern national redoubt. Von Rundstedt is in his 70th year. Containing at the time he was captured, Von Rundstedt was fully prepared to surrender.

He was succeeded in his command of western front forces by Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, who previously had commanded Nazi forces in Italy.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rumors were widespread at one time that Von Rundstedt, realizing that the German armies were beaten when the Ardennes offensive boomeranged, possibly offered to surrender his western armies or urged Hitler to give up the fight and thus fell into disfavor.

BORNEO INVASION WILL PROVE SEVERE BLOW TO JAPANESE

Air Force and Navy controlled the Japanese sea route of supply from the Nipponese home islands to the Dutch East Indies via the China and South China seas. Therefore, the flow of all raw materials to Nippon has likewise been cut off, except in some few isolated cases.

Amazing Strategy

The strategy of Allied blows in the Far East has been amazingly perfect. Our landing in the Philippines made it possible to cut the Japanese sea route, and it also provided a base for an overseas expedition against the east coast of China or the island of Formosa.

Next, our landing in Okinawa gave us another base which provided the same possibilities; that is, overseas invasion of China or Formosa. But, Okinawa is also a base of operations against the Japanese home islands. Okinawa is to the north of Formosa and Formosa itself is now actually placed within an Allied pincer movement which could be executed anytime it is so desired.

Both the Philippines and Okinawa cut off Japan's stolen Dutch East Indies. Now, a landing on Borneo will develop still another base which can cut off the South China sea route or provide a base for overseas operations against Japan or Sumatra. The by-passing used by the Allied and American high command in the Far East has been clever beyond words. The Nipponese cannot possibly guess where the next Allied blow will fall.

PRESIDENT TELLS OF SURRENDER ON ITALIAN FRONT

Italy alone, but a part of the general triumph we are expectantly awaiting on the whole continent of Europe.

"Only folly and chaos can now delay the general capitulation of the everywhere defeated German armies."

The president said that he had dispatched "congratulatory messages to the Allied and American officers who led our forces to complete defeat of the Germans in Italy."

"They deserve our praise for the victory," the president stated. "We have right to be proud of the success of our armies."

Let Japan Understand

"Let Japan as well as Germany understand the meaning of these events. Unless they are lost in fanaticism or determined upon suicide, now ready for the capitulation or the destruction of the so-called arrogant enemies of mankind."

The president addressed congratulatory messages to Field Marshal Alexander and Gen. Mark Clark, the Allied commanders in Italy.

HITLER'S DEATH REPORT FAILS TO AFFECT ALLIES

Nazi broadcasts as German commander-in-chief in Norway and a reported protagonist of German surrender to the Allies, also was ousted. He was replaced by Admiral Kranke, formerly Dönitz chief of staff.

3.—German naval units quartered at bases in Norway and Denmark were reported surrendering presumably to local officials, possibly foreshadowing almost immediate German repudiation of Dönitz' naval, military and civilian leadership.

Report Not Credited

In the best-informed British circles, Nazi pretensions that Hitler "fell in battle" were not credited to the slightest degree for reliable information is that he has been incapacitated for months.

No one in Britain eliminates the possibility that the whole affair is a Nazi ploy in poetic harmony with Hitler's whole life of intrigue and deception.

But it is fairly logical to assume that the war now will not end in any unconditional surrender, but will peter out in gradual disintegration of the German armed forces.

There was considerable speculation as to the activities and whereabouts of Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief and German minister of the interior, repeatedly removed during the last few days to be seeking peace with the Allies.

Greeted Apathetically

In the capitals of the Allied nations and elsewhere throughout the world, the Nazi announcement of Hitler's passing was greeted apathetically and churned up many doubts in the minds of observers.

Those willing to accept the possibility that the life of the man who plunged the whole world into its bloodiest conflict had been snuffed out felt that assertions that Hitler had fallen in the line of duty were only the work of propagandists.

It was believed that the enemy hoped to penetrate Hitler as a martyr and preserve something of the Nazi ideology.

May Be Fake

Numerous persons thought that the whole thing was a fake part of a long prepared plan to enable Hitler in the last hours of the dying Reich to disguise himself and to go underground for the purpose of leading a revival of national socialism.

Even the Moscow radio gave expression to this opinion, declaring that by reporting Hitler's death the Germans are apparently hoping to prepare for Hitler the possibility to disappear from the scene and go underground.

It was quite unlikely that the Nazis would be permitted to get away with any such ruse. Earlier statements in British foreign office circles that one of the Allied provisions to granting an armistice before establishment of peace would be the deliverance of Hitler, dead or alive were reiterated.

In tune with their year's calendar, Ethel Hurst Bible class members of the First Baptist church, gathered in the church dining room Tuesday evening for their annual Mothers-Daughters banquet. The occasion proved an overwhelming success, and was attended by nearly seventy.

At 6:30 o'clock, the program was opened with the assemblage singing the "Star Spangled Banner" and devotions led by Miss Sara Dandy. President, Miss Mary Virginia Roberts who presided in the role of toastmistress, gave welcome. Novel place markers, hand painted by Mrs. Mildred McClelland, were unique souvenirs.

The delicious menu, served by candlelight by ladies of the New Landis Missionary Circle, who appeared in identical varicolored apronettes.

Musical selections were offered by Miss Ruth Taggart with Miss June Randolph accompanist, both of Westminster College. "Tribute to Mother" was told by Miss Helen E. McCombs, with Mrs. Frank Hay offering the response. Speaker of the evening, Mrs. Charles T. Metzler, gave an inspiring message on the theme "The God Like Woman."

Special remembrances were presented by Miss Mabelle Schunk to Mrs. Joseph Currie who carried off the title of being the mother of the most children to participate, and, to Mrs. J. V. ## WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

Says State Department Shares Part Of Blame

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The accusation brought against the state department by Herbert Claiborne Pell deserves more consideration than it has received.

Part of the blame for the German atrocities that have so shocked the world Pell puts on the state department. Coming from a former member of the War Crimes Commission, that is no mere shot in the dark.

Pell, a man of position and prestige, has a long European experience, including two important diplomatic posts. He speaks out of sober knowledge and a realization of the dangers inherent in a policy of drift.

As the American member of the War Crimes Commission, Pell worked with representatives of our allies to define war crimes and to fix adequate punishment. The commission in London did a thorough job. Aware of the awful threat to millions of human beings at the mercy of the Nazis, the group provided penalties ranging from imprisonment up to death for a series of crimes.

The commission itself, of course, did not have the power to put out this international criminal code in behalf of the nations represented on the commission. What it could and did do was to recommend that the various foreign offices take over at this point and inform the world that the criminal would be punished in terms of a code agreed upon by the allies.

Nothing happened. The foreign office in London and the state department in Washington sat on the recommendations.

Pell returned to America in an effort to get action. It was already very late, since clearly the Germans would become more brutal as they became more fearful of their position in Europe. A tottering dictatorship is always more cruel than one that is securely entrenched.

From the late President Roosevelt, Pell received every assurance of support. In the face of this assurance, he was told at the state department that he was to be dropped from the commission because congress would not appropriate $30,000 for its work.

At about the same time the British, member of the commission, Sir Cecil Hurst, resigned. He had no more success than Pell in persuading the foreign office to accept the commission's recommendations.

No nothing was done. Notice was not served on the enemy that the guilty would be punished. Might have halted some brutality. Of course, this would not have prevented the holocaust of brutality that has swept Germany. But Pell says, and with good reason, that many individuals might have been deterred from acts of mass savagery if they had been informed that it meant certain death. As it was, the Nazis knew that the individual governments had failed to act on the recommendations of the War Crimes Commission.

This failure leaves a serious gap in our German policy. There is an embarrassing zone of doubt at the moment when our military commanders should proceed under agreed-upon rules.

It might be necessary to pass sentence on a half million or more men—possibly all of the Gestapo together with the SS. But how can we better be able to fix the guilt and assess the punishment? That would make the approach to the jungle of Germany today so much simpler.

Pell points to the contrast with Russia. The Russians, never so naive as to talk about a "hard core" of peace have acted on a clear, defined code which has already brought many German criminals to trial and punishment. Having established the free German committee and drawn the line between criminal and non-criminal, they are going ahead on a policy that makes sense.

Nature, that impresses the people of liberated countries. If society retribution is swift and sure while we continue to waver, then as Pell points out, torturing Europeans will chalk up another score for Russian realism.

Is it any wonder that German soldiers and civilians came flocking to our line to try to surrender? Quite apart from Goebbels' propaganda against Russia, the Nazis have never heard anything from us about punishment.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SOME MAJOR SOCIAL MENACES

Of grave concern to parents are at least three types of major social menaces. They are appalling prevalence and upsurge of mental illness, divorce and juvenile delinquency. These are all closely related, each contributing to the other. Anything we can do to check one should help check the others.

Homes broken by divorce tend to mention those with strained relationships help further mental illness and juvenile delinquency. Juvenile delinquency, obviously, makes a big contribution to mental illness, family conflicts and divorce. There are many exceptions, of course; we are talking of trends.

Many short-sighted people are apt to blame all these tragedies on the war. But if they will examine the records they will easily see that divorce, delinquency and mental illness were climbing steadily upward, and very fast, long before Pearl Harbor. Naturally, the war has given them a vigorous spurt.

Lack of Control
To anyone it must be manifest that lack of self-control and self-discipline is a common contributing factor to all these three social malignities.

We should like to think that education would guarantee self-control and self-discipline. Yet as more people have more education in the United States, fewer seem to have acquired self-control and self-discipline. What is more, except for religion, what has there been in education which philosophy to further self-discipline? Indeed, the philosophy which the rank and file of "educated" people (including parents) have appeared to accept most readily may be characterized as "restraints to the winds."

But it is not what many of the writers and counselors have written and said that has done so much obvious damage as what the average parent believes they mean. If you corner the most extreme advocate of "self-expression," he will assure you he believes self-control to be essential. He will also assure you that self-control begins from within.

leaving you to find out how in some mysterious way. You must yield some magic wand never your hand or a paddle.

Teaching Self-Discipline
I must be very stupid, but I've never been able to understand how any parent can get self-control not to mention self-discipline, started in a child except from without.

Once a tot has learned to keep himself from touching the gas jet or running into the street, he has acquired some basic self-control. He learns that he gets immediate physical pain without exception unless avoidance is permanent and automatic. He gains more self-control when he keeps himself from other things or acts he has been told once to avoid, still more when he keeps himself from other things or acts he has on his own accord decides to avoid.

Spank the tot selectively, consistently to teach him the meaning of NO so you can love him abundantly and be happy with him and he with you. Then he will acquire the basis of self-control, sufficient to make him fit for good mental health, good marriage and parenthood, good citizenship. I believe there are still enough self-disciplined parents to do this well enough to check these three threats to our republic provided they will cultivate spiritual growth in themselves and their children and practice at home any religion that will make them lovely to live with.

President Truman Is Proving Democratic
Sugar Handling Under Congressional Fire
Nurse Draft Fading Into The Background

By ELLEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Harry S. Truman may go down in history as the most democratic, the most approachable and the least well-headed of American presidents.

In respect, he was unusual as a senator and practically unique as a vice president. Newsmen who cover the Capitol never were made to feel that they were talking to anybody except a fellow named Harry, and his attitude on the new president's part did not change in the slightest when he was elevated to the vice presidency.

Most men when they rise to the nation's second highest office surround themselves with a kind of official aloofness. But Harry Truman would hold informal news conferences which usually turned out to be bull sessions, just as he did as senator.

This is the quality which is now being called "humility." Perhaps it is genuinely humble, but he certainly wears no cloak of humility, and he can be a very positive individual when he wants to be. He simply has that kind of self-confidence which makes him feel that he can meet any man in the world on the other fellow's terms.

Newsmen who used to call him "Senator" had addressed him as "Mr. Vice President" since Jan. 20. He would invariably grin and say, "You are supposed to smile when you say that."

Sugar Shortage Seen
Government handling of the sugar situation is under fire again. There are free predictions on Capitol Hill that American housewives will find sugar very short in supply this year.

To get what they need of this item, says Representative Jonckman, R. of Michigan, must either turn to the black market or go without. Their sugar stamps will pile up because there will be no sugar in the stores—unless immediate steps are taken.

It is too late to prevent a serious sugar shortage for the balance of this year, says Jonckman. He said the CCC had failed to meet the situation.

Blaming federal government policies for the lack of sugar, the congressman, a member of the GOP congressional food stuffs committee, said in part the death was deliberately planned.

"The truth is that during the remainder of the year the civilian population of the United States faces the worst sugar shortage of the entire emergency period and a large part of that shortage is due to present federal government policies."

To Salvage War Materials
While responsible officials say that 70 percent of the war material being used in Europe will be salvaged for use against the Nazis, it is only an overall average figure.

Actually, a good part of the material will have to be scrapped as worthless—telephone and telegraph lines for instance.

Only about 40 percent of the trucks will be found usable after they have completed their haul of loading ships and far less than that will be found usable in the near west coast.

Heavy artillery will be salvaged almost 100 percent. As a result of the change in focus the war will take the European theater of operations will have to draw along and second-rate supplies after V-E day.

Hitherto, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur still has top priority.

Senate defeat of the malt liquor compromise also admittedly makes things a bit more difficult for the Senate in its effort to draft the bill.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Albert Einstein, 66-year-old scientist, has just been named professor emeritus of the faculty of the Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton University.

That means that he has been relieved of his official duties, and will now be able to give as much time as he wants to his present undertaking the study of the theory of bio-logic and other fields the structural elements of which depend upon two space-time points.

I haven't the slightest idea of what that means nor do I have the slightest idea of what relativity is all about.

And to be perfectly truthful, do you know any more about it than I do?

Yet we both know that Professor Einstein is one of the most famous men in the world and has received more honors than most of us.

There is hardly a child in America who hasn't a clear picture of him in his mind—that mischievous little fellow with that wild hair and that little mustache that sticks out of his mouth.

One of the country's great psychiatrists, Dr. George H. Lipp, was asked the other day by a layman to explain "double consciousness."

Well, to explain it simply, he said, "double consciousness may be said to be a supposed inhibition of the mind's power of perception of the physical world, the mind's perception of the physical world."

Just as simple as that!

Well, after all, we would probably honor Professor Einstein less and put Dr. H. Lipp in the front of the parade if we understood all the mysterious terms and principles which they use just as easily as the carpenter uses his T-square or the plumber his wrench.

The other day a woman wrote to me and asked:

"How can you do down and be a column every day in the week? What is the mystery? What do you have to know to be able to do it?"

Whereupon I replied:

"How can you stand up and look three miles a day every day in the week? How can you make a decision based out of some old corner book or a scientific opinion out of a lot of odd-ends and ends? What is the mystery? What do you have to know to be able to do it?"

I am going to show this to my wife when she finishes.

And do you know what she is going to say?

"You oughtn't to bother me with a Professor's method of Housekeeping when I see to Einstein's age!"

COSTLY EXPERIMENTS
As time moves toward the hysteria that prevailed in the army during early stages of the war, becomes more evident. Two little efforts in Alaska and Canada are prominent instances. On Canada, the planes and the Alaskan expedition.

The Alaskan expedition cost $230,000,000 and the latter which was supposed to be an emergency route overland to Alaska. Senior Macmillan of Washington charges was only conceived and badly located; that the army went stubbornly ahead in the face of warnings to its effect from people who knew the situation better and that, in consequence, the thousands of dead is a total loss. The senator asserts that Canadian authorities see no possibility of maintaining the road in its present location. To the credit, Harold Ickes, he vigorously opposed the Canal of the line. The cost of the Alaskan highway was approximately the same as that of the pipeline. The war department said the cost of the pipeline was $100,000,000 and has kept it up to the American Red Cross spokesman.

(Special To The News)

WITH THE 724TH RAILWAY OPERATING BATTALION IN FRANCE—Like any busy railroad in the United States, the Military Railway System in France maintains a wrecking crew with complete equipment to deal with any wreck.

Pride and joy of the 724th, which is commanded by Lt. Kenneth J. Lally, 207½ North Liberty street, New Castle, Pa., is "Big Baby," a 45-ton English wrecker, capable of lifting any type of wrecked railway stock to which it can attach a hook.

"Big Baby" was a welcome addition for when the men of the 724th first arrived in France they had to borrow crow bars and jacks from the French in order to clear a wreck.

The crew's most spectacular job was the clearing of a wrecked locomotive from the top of a 110-foot high viaduct in Belgium just about the time the Germans launched their ill-fated December drive into the Ardennes, and once "Big Baby" lifted a French locomotive out of a bomb crater in seven hours.

Including in the crew is another New Castle, Pa., man, Cpl. DeWitt Keneshan, 1007 Dewey avenue.

Germans Flee Into Denmark

By JAMES L. KILGALLIN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, May 2.—A German retreat through Schleswig-Holstein northward into Denmark was announced by supreme Allied headquarters today in the wake of a massive new Anglo-American thrust from the north banks of the Elbe river near Hamburg.

With the Nazis in southern Germany streaming toward temporary haven in the Bavarian Redoubt, a spokesman at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters disclosed the virtual collapse of enemy resistance in northern Germany.

The Germans are "fleeing" toward Denmark, headquarters said, and American and British troops have broken out of their bridgeheads at the northern estuary of the Elbe.

Fail To Believe Hitler Is Dead

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—(INS)—Adolf Hitler is dead, the Germans say, but Western Pennsylvanians on the whole took the news last night with a grain of salt.

They had read too many of Hitler's lies, too much Nazi propaganda, they said, to believe it.

Yet as the news spread through the city there was a hopeful tone in the voices as they expressed their sentiments—hopeful that they were not wrong in being somewhat skeptical and hopeful that Hitler's death, if true, was by the torture road.

According to the London Evening News, H.S. was informed of the development while eating breakfast. The merely went on eating.

The one-time Nazi big-shot has been reported in a complete mental torpor for months.

Stockholm Hears German Forces To Evacuate Norway

LONDON, May 2.—(INS)—Well-informed quarters in Stockholm said today that the German minister to Copenhagen, Dr. Werner Best, and a representative of the Swedish government had reached an agreement for German evacuation of Norway.

A Reuters dispatch from the Swedish capital reported: Dr. Best was given full powers to act on behalf of the German authorities in Norway, according to these quarters.

The German garrison in Norway had been estimated at about 300,000 troops together with a few hundred members of the German air force and a fleet of U-boats.

Norway was generally regarded as a principal obstacle which might stand in the way of an early end to the war in Europe if the Nazi garrison there chose to put up a fight.

The report that the Nazis had agreed to withdraw from Norway was treated with reserve in London. It was pointed out that up to noon radio reports gave contrary indications.

While riding the handlebars of his brother's bicycle at 3:45 p.m. Tuesday, Bruce Clark, 7, English avenue, R. D. 2, sustained serious injuries of the face and head when the bicycle, operated by Gary Clark, 9, struck an auto driven by Joseph Salzman, R. D. 1, at Miller avenue and Route 422. He is in the Jameson Memorial hospital.

The accident was said by State police investigators to have been caused by Gary's efforts to avoid a crash with another bicycle operated from Miller avenue.

Gary reportedly steered his bicycle to the center of Route 422 to avoid striking the other bicycle and rode his bicycle against the car of Salzman which was journeying to New Castle.

Local Sailor With 'Little' In Ship's First Engagement
(Special to The News)
AT TWO HMA (Delayed)—Samuel Patey Yanness, 20, seaman 1-c USNR, was aboard the new U. S. S. Little when she had her first engagement with the enemy on February 19, 1945, at two Jima.

Seaman Yanness, who lives at 811 Pollock avenue, New Castle, Pa., has been with the Little since she received her commissioning pennant in Seattle, and was at his battle station for 24 hours helping his ship through her first real test.

The Little, under way, went to within 200 yards of the beach to shell Jap caves and mortar positions, waiting only when most of her ammunition was expended.

Legless Ensign Observes Peace Conference Work

Wounded Men From Naval Hospital
Watch Struggle For Security
Against War

By INEZ ROBB
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Two sailors carefully lifted a slight ensign of World War II out of a bus and carried him into the opera house built by San Francisco as a memorial to the men of World War I.

They settled him so expertly and quietly behind delegates charged with making a permanent peace structure for this war-weary world that few in the big audience noticed both his legs were missing.

The ensign had left them at Iwo Jima, and he was terribly anxious to see with his own eyes if the wise men of the United Nations—so much older than he—really were going to build a world security organization that would prevent other young men of 22 from such desperate loss as his in the future.

Satisfied Smile

Three hours later he was carried out of the opera house, there was a satisfied smile on the face of Ensign Frank Jirka, 22 of Clinton Place, Chicago.

"I really think these men are trying hard to find the right solution," said the young ensign whose grandfather, the late Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, died of an assassin's bullet aimed at President Roosevelt in Miami in 1933.

"They'd better find some way to get this war business finished," Jirka added vehemently, as the sailors lifted him back into the bus for the return journey to the Mare Island naval hospital.

Jirka was only one of 58 amputees from the hospital, which cares for wounded navy and marine personnel, who were brought to the opera house to see at first hand whether other men are fighting as valiantly in peace as they fought in war.

Here were young men—boys really—who had borne the cruel brunt of war from Guadalcanal to Iwo Jima, and from Midway to the second battle of the Philippine sea. They came on crutches with quiet, unobtrusive dignity up a ramp into the opera house. More than one boy with an empty sleeve gave his good hand to help some friend just learning to walk on artificial limbs.

O.C.D. To End By June 30

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS)—President Truman today notified the Congress that the Office of Civilian Defense will be terminated by June 30.

The President, in notifying Congress of the dissolution of the agency, withdrew its proposed budget for the next fiscal year.

The White House statement said that "recent developments in the European war and the efficient operation of the volunteer forces in the communities made possible the decision that federal supervision of civilian defense is no longer necessary."

Yanks In Europe To Get Furlough Says New Report

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Most of the GIs who have been slugging it out on the ground over the bloody battlefields of Europe are going to get a furlough home in the United States before they move off on the road to Tokyo.

This fact was revealed exclusively to International News Service today by an unimpeachable source.

Hitherto every official source has emphasized the certainty that most of the millions of soldiers who have without success driven from Normandy to a juncture with the Russians in mid-Germany, must wait in Europe until facilities for their transportation directly to the far east were available.

Since that opinion was first voiced conditions have changed to the point where the contrary is true.

Another Heavy Frost Reported

Tender Vegetation Gets Another
Freezing This Morning, and Ice
Forms In Shallow Pools

Another extremely heavy frost was noted here this morning, when temperatures ranging from 27 degrees above zero down to marks of 24 in exposed places were reported.

Tender vegetation got another setback, and some residents report that various kinds of flowers were sadly wilted down this morning. Ice a quarter of an inch thick froze in shallow pools and roof gutters.

The official temperature at the weather observing station was 27 degrees, but lower marks were reported in other spots.

Gardeners hope this will be the last frost of the season. Cold weather this spring has caused tremendous damage this year, due to the fact that March was such an extremely warm month that vegetation got a month's head start, and when normal weather conditions prevailed during April fruit was hard hit.

Last spring the last heavy frost occurred on April 29.

Four Named In Senator's Death

Sen. Hooper was slain Jan. 11 while enroute from Lansing to his home in Albion.

Will Have Roles In School Play

Miss Joan May Cox And Ralph
Shiner Have Important Parts
In 'Youth Takes Over'

The public production of "Youth Takes Over", to be given at the senior high school, will have Joan May Cox and Ralph Biddle Shiner as important members of a cast of 26 members.

Joan is again cast for the role of an elderly woman, having recently played Granny in "Come Rain or Shine". This time she is Mrs. Rathbone, a strait-laced leader in community reforms and the sponsor of the League of Young Citizens, whose activities in the hands of a high school mischiefmaker and his special crowd of girls and boys are startling.

Mrs. Rathbone is "taken for a ride" and ends by enjoying the experience—after an interval. Joan Cox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Cox of East Laurel avenue.

"Shine" is Mrs. Rathbone's somewhat unwilling partner in reform. He is Dr. Pierson, the new high school principal, whose initial problem on arrival at his new post is the well advertised high school mischiefmaker. Mrs. Rathbone and Dr. Pierson differ completely as to how troublesome youth should be treated.

Throughout three acts of the comedy Dr. Pierson's path is thorny and the incidents involved are full of good stage business for an audience of high school students and adults with a nostalgic memory of high school days. Ralph, Jr., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shiner of North Walnut street.

Regular sessions of the conference will be held during the coming four days, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday with morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Rev. J. C. Murphy is pastor of the host church.

Wire Tapping Bill Goes To Conference

HARRISBURG, May 2.—(INS)—A House measure specifically prohibiting "wire tapping" appeared headed today toward a conference committee after the lower chamber refused to concur in clarifying Senate amendments.

Official sources reported the measure would probably be killed because the proposed law would "hamper" law enforcement officers in their work during wartime.

Rep. Charles H. Brunner, Jr. (R) Montgomery, sponsor of the measure, persuaded the House to reject the amendments which would make only "willful and malicious" wire tapping illegal.

Pennsy Announces Personnel Changes

J. L. Parker, who has been serving as assistant master mechanic at the local office of the Pennsylvania railroad, has been transferred to Chicago where he will serve as master mechanic, according to LeRoy Simcoe, chief clerk of the E. and A. division of the railroad.

Replacing him will be A. R. March, who was formerly engine house foreman at Grand Rapids.

Another change in the personnel of the E. and A. Division is the appointment of L. F. Shields of Indianapolis to the position of track supervisor at Niles, Ohio, a job which was left vacant by the resignation of P. E. Flynn.

Put Prisoners On Bread And Water

SAN ANGELO, Tex., May 2.—(INS)—Twelve hundred Nazi prisoners of war at Camp were put on a bread and water diet today because they preferred the Nazi straight arm salute to the conventional American salute.

Col. Robert G. Saxon, commanding the camp, said that all the German prisoners except those in one compound obeyed last week's order to discontinue symbols of the Nazi regime. The 1200 in one section of the camp who disregarded the instructions were put on a bread and water diet immediately.

The fandango, said to be the oldest of the Spanish national dances, was mentioned frequently in the literature of the 16th century.

Russians Believe Hitler Report Is New Fascist Trick

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
MOSCOW, May 2.—The Russians will believe Adolf Hitler is dead when and if the Red army finds his body in Berlin, informed Soviet opinion indicated today.
Muscovites generally believed the report of Hitler's death was a hoax to conceal his hiding place.
The official Russian news agency distributed the report briefly, then added:
"The German reports are apparently a new fascist trick by which the Germans hope to allow Hitler to leave the stage and start a secret life."
Because of the huge May Day celebrations yesterday, most Moscow residents learned of the death reports today when newspapers appeared late. But since radios are not permitted, some Muscovites listened to BBC's accounts yesterday.
One woman whose five-year-old daughter was killed by the Germans in Odessa, said: "A woman should get a husband's death."

Men's Tifereth Club Hears Review

Mrs. Alec Samuels Gives Excellent
Review Of Rebecca Gratz
Tuesday Evening
"Rebecca Gratz" by Rollin G. Osterweis, was the book well reviewed in an interesting manner Tuesday evening by Mrs. Alec Samuels at the meeting of the Men's Tifereth club in the Tifereth Israel synagogue.
Rebecca, was the daughter of Jewish parents, who resided in Philadelphia in the early 1700. The life of Rebecca Gratz typifies the life of the Jewish people from the Revolutionary era up to the time of the Civil War. The character of Rebecca was also used by Sir Walter Scott in his famous work "Ivanhoe" of American literature.
The meeting was well attended with wives of club members attending as special guests. Another guest was Lieut. Joseph Solomon, a returned overseas veteran, who is now stationed at Sebring, Ala. Lieut. Solomon spoke briefly to the group.
At the close of the program, tasty refreshments were served by the following hostesses: Mrs. Pearl Zieve, Mrs. Harry Piroff, Mrs. Gus Slovinsky, Mrs. Charles Cushman and Mrs. Charles Malerson.
June 5, is the next meeting of the Men's Tifereth club.

SMALLER POWERS TAKE SPOTLIGHT AT CONFERENCE

the creation of a general assembly in which 49 United Nations will have equal voice, a security council in which the "big five" will have a lusty voice, and a new world court in which all men will be equal.
When the committees begin functioning, another "little four" will wield gavel while the "big three" and other great powers appear as advocates, the second "little four" are Peter Fraser of New Zealand, chairman of the committee on trusteeship system; Camilo Ponce Enrriquez of Ecuador, chairman of the committee on enforcement arrangements, which deals with the explosive "veto" issue in the security council; Alberto Lleras Camargo of Columbia, chairman of the committee on legal problems, dealing with a new international code of law.

Many Obstacles
There are many obstacles to overcome before the United Nations successfully launch a new world security order. Some obstacles are disputes among themselves. Some selfish national motives may be discerned now and then. But there seems to be a deep almost religious desire to create an organization that will end war.

One major controversial issue concerns the veto power given the "big five" in the security council. Small nations are objecting to giving the United States, Britain, Russia, China and France that power. It may eventually be decided amicably but again it may be fought to a democratic conclusion in a public vote of the conference.
Another concern is the trusteeship issue. The United States is now circulating to all other United Nations its final plan on this issue. The Americans favor international trusteeships in non-strategic areas but insist upon retaining control of all strategic islands captured in the Pacific. The Americans propose to rule these islands for an indefinite period in accordance with all rules laid down by the new security order.
The British are getting out a statement of their position on this issue. One British statesman said there was but little difference between the American and British positions.

The regional arrangement issue may be settled quietly. The Pan-American nations have one in the Chapultepec security agreement. Russia has gone with France. Now the Arab states have asked the conference to recognize the league of Arab states, which includes Syria, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, Egypt and Yemen in another great regional group.
The only question arising is to determine by what method these regional groups shall be subordinated to the authority of the world order.

GERMAN FORCES SURRENDER ON FRONT IN ITALY

Heinrich Von Vietinghoff, who succeeded Field Marshal Albert Kesselring as Nazi commander in Italy.
He agreed under its terms to hand over all German land, sea and air forces in Italy to British Field Marshal Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, Allied commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean theatre.
The surrender was signed for the Allies by Lieut. Gen. W. D. Morgan, chief of staff to Alexander.
The territory in Vietinghoff's command included all of northern Italy to the Isouzo river as well as the Austrian provinces of Vorarlberg, Tyrol and Salzburg and portions of Carinthia and Styria.
Total German forces, including combat and rear Echelon troops now eliminated from the war, are estimated at nearly 1,000,000 men. The troops included remnants of 22 German divisions and six Italian Fascist divisions which had fought beside the Nazis.
Vietinghoff's capitulation was the first unconditional surrender by any complete and integrated German army since the war began.

By HERBERT G. KING
Representing the Combined American Press (Distributed by International News Service)
ROYAL PALACE AT CASERTA, Near Naples, May 2.—(INS)—The German armies of northern Italy and western Austria formally surrendered to the Allies today effective at 8 a. m., EVI.
The surrender affects between 600,000 and 900,000 men commanded by Col. Gen. Heinrich Von Vietinghoff and Gen. Karl Wolff, chief of police and security for northern Italy and western Austria.
Lieut. Gen. W. D. Morgan of the British army, who negotiated in behalf of Field Marshal Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, supreme commander in the Mediterranean theatre, said the terms in effect are complete and unconditional surrender.
The documents were signed in the Royal Palace on Sunday by Morgan and two German officers, one of whom represented Von Vietinghoff and the other Wolff.

Black Market Probe In Cleveland

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS)—The house food investigating committee disclosed today that the OPA is opening "an intensive investigation" of black market operations in meat in the Cleveland area.
An early report has been promised, it added.
Cleveland hearings by the committee disclosed that the business of small slaughterers in the Cleveland area was "expanding by leaps and bounds."
All of the Pullman passengers' mail and express carried by railroads in 1939, if transported by plane, would have required about 50,000 barrels per day of aviation gasoline.

It is reported that the thermometer registered 26 degrees in the ward this morning. Mrs. C. E. Dunagan of Newell avenue says that her "bleeding heart" and other flowers are looking O.K., no doubt having been protected by the heavy fog that prevailed this morning. It can be noticed that a number of garden plots in the ward have been dug and otherwise prepared for planting these gardeners evidently awaiting better weather. Owing to the continued cool weather, garden stuff showing above the ground has made but little progress for two weeks.

Conference May Be Speeded Up

Imminence Of Victory In Europe
May Accelerate United Nations Parley
By H. EDWARD KNOBLAUGH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Any move to speed up the United Nations conference in view of the imminence of victory in Europe will probably receive the hearty endorsement of a large majority of the Latin-American delegates.
A canvass of the Latin delegations reveals a general belief today that the collapse of Germany will cause the conference to be able to be accelerated, possibly enabling all the delegates to reach their host city before the end of the month. Although no time limit has been placed on the conference, many observers had believed the large number of important problems facing the San Francisco meeting might cause it to run well into June.
It has been reported that pressing affairs at home will force the early departure of the Russian, British, Chinese and French delegation chiefs. Many of the other delegation heads also are foreign ministers whose services will be required in their countries when peace finally comes to Europe.
The composition of the Argentine delegation, invited to the conference Monday, has not yet been made public but it is reported that it will be headed by Cesar Amelino, ad interim minister of foreign affairs. If so, he will be the 16th foreign minister among the 29 Latin-American delegations at the conference.

Mercer Boy Listed As Dead Turns Up In Army Hospital!

Parents Of Sgt. Clifford Buckley
Rejoice On Arrival Of Letter
From Son Himself

MERCER, May 2.—Having mourned the death of their son, Sgt. Clifford Buckley, which they received two weeks ago when notified by the Veterans Administration in Washington, D.C., the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Buckley, of Pardo, became a house of rejoicing on Saturday when they received a V-mail letter from Sgt. Buckley, who had written, informing them that he was in an English hospital.

Sgt. Buckley was a waist gunner on a B-17 which was reported to have gone down in Germany on June 27, last year, and the last direct word received from their son was written in October, 1944.

Following the word received from the Veterans Administration Bureau two weeks ago announcing his death, the young 22-year-old soldier had been another of the list of those lost in action from the Mercer district and Saturday's letter was glad news to his family and friends.

Governor Approves Seventeen Bills

HARRISBURG, May 2.—(INS)—Seventeen additional bills approved by Gov. Edward Martin increased today the total number of measures bearing his signature in the 1945 session to 163.

New legislation would abolish the residence requirement as a prerequisite for receiving public assistance in certain cases; admit assessors employed by fourth class counties to enter retirement systems; approve transfer of Ft. Mifflin at Philadelphia to the federal government; eliminate annual fees for swimming places operated by religious, charitable or non-profit corporations; regulate the cancellation of registrations upon failure to vote within two years in third class cities and Scranton.

Eliminate periodic enumeration of aliens and persons over 10 years of age unable to write English; extend liens for persons serving in the armed forces; regulate postwar expenditures in municipalities; enable state teachers' colleges to cooperate in the rehabilitation of veterans; require the game commission to pay bounties to public employees; regulate parks in all counties; define industrial policies issued in connection with the workmen's compensation fund; regulate computation of the reserve liability of life insurance companies; clarify retirement for employees paid from the state fish and workmen's insurance funds.

Mr. White paid tribute to the foresight of Fish Commissioner Charles French, of Ellwood City, who, he stated, has been responsible for the propagation of bass for Pennsylvania streams.

In 1926, he stated, 26,000 bass were planted in Pennsylvania streams, while last year, 600,000 of these game food fish were distributed. Mr. French sold the Fish Commission on the idea that bass could be propagated in state fisheries, and as a result, more are being raised every year.

There are nine hatcheries in Pennsylvania, which are producing a lot of trout and bass for the fishermen, Mr. White stated.

He told about the plans which were under way for a great fish hatchery at Pymatuning, and which were halted because of the war, but predicted that as soon as the war is over, that these plans will go forward, which will result in great quantities of fish being propagated in the natural habitat of the fish.

W. C. Killgallon, of Pleasant Hills, Pittsburgh, was a guest of the club.

District Fish Warden Tells What Fish Commission Is Doing For Fishermen Of Pennsylvania

C. B. "Rosy" White, district fish warden gave an interesting talk to members of the New Castle Lions Club at their noon luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Tuesday, when he told of the work the Fish Commission is doing for the anglers of Pennsylvania, and also of some of his personal experiences.

Mr. White paid tribute to the foresight of Fish Commissioner Charles French, of Ellwood City, who, he stated, has been responsible for the propagation of bass for Pennsylvania streams.

In 1926, he stated, 26,000 bass were planted in Pennsylvania streams, while last year, 600,000 of these game food fish were distributed.

Mr. French sold the Fish Commission on the idea that bass could be propagated in state fisheries, and as a result, more are being raised every year.

There are nine hatcheries in Pennsylvania, which are producing a lot of trout and bass for the fishermen, Mr. White stated.

He told about the plans which were under way for a great fish hatchery at Pymatuning, and which were halted because of the war, but predicted that as soon as the war is over, that these plans will go forward, which will result in great quantities of fish being propagated in the natural habitat of the fish.

W. C. Killgallon, of Pleasant Hills, Pittsburgh, was a guest of the club.

More Ideas On War Memorial Are Given

"More of the same" is what we find in seeking the opinions of New Castle people on the subject of memorials to soldiers of this war. Memorials are definitely in disfavor, and things of social and practical benefit are a la mode just now.

In fact, statements are becoming more decisive as people find out that they don't have to be apologetic about thinking that monuments are rather useless because just about everyone else is saying the same thing. For example, there are the remarks of:

Milton A. Pattison, principal of Union High school. "We ought to tear down the monuments we've got! It's monstrous to build monuments to war. The money should go into something which will stimulate peace and peace-time activities. Out here in Union township, we could use a playground for the children and young people, and we could use a community library. We don't have either, and I hope it doesn't take two wars to get both."

Thelma Dundon, captain of the local Salvation Army headquarters. "If the money went into memorial scholarships, then the work would carry on in the persons who obtained them. Perhaps the scholarships could be for study of the social sciences or medicine or scientific research—fields that are both careers and callings. As for the soldiers with whom I have come in contact through my Salvation Army work, most of them would want something to remind them of the future, not the past."

George Gettings, local WMC representative and governor of the local Moose lodge. "Our lodge has a committee set up to discuss and study the ideas which come up. We don't have any definite plans yet, but we are fully prepared to co-operate in whatever plans the community makes. Of course, we like the community memorial hall idea."

There are 136 hospitals in New York City. They contain more than 39,000 beds.

Certain Inalienable Rights

THE PEOPLE in this bus are crowded. They would rather be riding in automobiles—and, when the war's over, a good many of them will.

For it is one of their inalienable rights as Americans to live their own lives in their own way, to say what they wish, to read what they like, to ride as they choose.

Right now, however, they're faced with a crisis—the greatest in their history. And they're finding that the best way to get along in this emergency is to get along together.

Take a look about you today in a bus or a street car. There you'll see America—going it together. Rich with poor. High with low. Famous with unknown. This is what Washington and Franklin and Jefferson meant when they called us the United States.

The people in these street cars and buses are finding a certain pride in making room for others; in moving to the rear so others can get on in riding at off-peak hours so that everyone can make use of existing facilities.

We are doing our best to provide rides for all. Drastic changes have been made in service—changes required by the Office of Defense Transportation—to see that the country keeps moving.

When the emergency passes, new, more spacious, more comfortable cars and buses will appear. And we shall enjoy them in a new era of peace—made possible by the fact that when war came, we were all able to see it through together.

SHENANGO VALLEY TRANSPORTATION CO.

Member: AMERICAN TRANSIT ASSOCIATION

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE PRESENT...AND A WORD ABOUT THE FUTURE

- Q. Why are buses and street cars so crowded today?
A. Because the transit industry, with about the same capacity that it had ten years ago, is today carrying double the load—nationally 23 billion rides a year.
- Q. How is the job being accomplished?
A. By speeding up service through such devices as skip stops and other measures for increasing operating efficiency, as sponsored by the Office of Defense Transportation, and most important, through the cooperation of the public in staggering business, industrial and school hours to relieve peak loads.
- Q. What can we learn from this emergency?
A. The extent to which we are all dependent upon efficient and reliable transportation for modern living.
- Q. How can we profit from this knowledge?
A. By planning our cities of the future for the movement of more people in fewer vehicles. Urban planning, values are dependent upon accessibility and when traffic congestion makes accessibility difficult, neighborhood deterioration and property values fall.
- Q. How can I learn more about this subject?
A. Write to us today for a fascinating booklet about transit and its postwar plans. It's free for the asking.

He Liked Way She Cooked His Deer

PITTSBURGH, May 2—(INS)—Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Baker, aged 75 and 74 respectively, Tuesday had proven that love and a determined liking for well-cooked venison can eventually be joined by the bonds of matrimony.

The couple were married Monday by a Bradford elderman. Baker, who has three living children, ten grandchildren and a great-grandchild, met his wife the former Mrs.

Philmon Krise at the hunting lodge she conducted in Clearfield county.

For four years, he had admired the way she cooked the deer he bagged during hunting trips out of her lodge.

Their marriage came as a surprise to Baker's children. However, has been installed in the Chicago in Pittsburgh his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank E. Baker, said she approved the wedding because "the old seed companionship."

For the convenience of left-handed persons, a drinking fountain with the control valve on the left side, has been installed in the Chicago city hall.

Haynes Hurls One-Hit Game

White Sox Hurler Surprises With Great Game, Allows Just One Single

BOSTON RED SOX TRIP SENATORS

By LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK, May 2.—American league baseball people began to take the White Sox seriously today as a result of Chicago's 5 to 0 victory over Detroit yesterday.

Leading the league, the Sox were more or less on the spot when they were defeated by the Tigers, generally regarded as the most formidable team in the circuit. So what happened? Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Pale Hose came up with a brand new pitching ace in the person of Joe Haynes who last year was only an indifferent mound performer with the Sox.

Just One Hit

But for a clean single by Jimmy Webb in the third inning, Haynes would have entered baseball's Hall of fame with a no-hit game.

Last year, Haynes had the lowest earned run average of all the Sox pitchers, with a figure of 2.57 per game, but won only five games while losing six.

In the only other game of the day, George Binks, Washington outfielder, did his level best to beat the Boston Red Sox but got no help from his mates. Binks got three of the four hits that the Nats collected off Emmett O'Neill and Pinky Woods, and drove in all of Washington's four runs. But the Red Sox, chalking up their fourth straight win after eight consecutive defeats, nipped Johnny Niggeling for ten hits and coasted to a 5 to 4 win.

All other scheduled games were called off because of rain or cold weather.

Will Attend Testimonial

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—(INS)—Bill Benswanger, Pittsburgh Pirate president, Tuesday accepted an invitation to attend a testimonial dinner in honor of U. S. Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler, the new baseball commissioner, to be held in Lexington, Ky., next Monday.

Plan To Appeal Racing Decision

Judge Declares Detroit Race Track Operation Invalid, Meets Opposition

LANSING, Mich., May 2.—(INS)—The administration of the Detroit race track, the operations of which were declared invalid Saturday by the Wayne County circuit court, was defended Tuesday by Charles F. Fay, head of the state department of agriculture.

"The department of agriculture feels the Detroit Racing Association has not been a bad tenant and sees no reason to go in and cancel the lease," Fay declared. His statement was an answer to the ruling of Circuit Judge Guy A. Miller who branded the racing meets a "public nuisance."

Charges Violation

Judge Miller's decision stated that under the law the agricultural commissioner had no right to lease property under his control for private purposes. He also charged the track buildings were a fire hazard because they violated city of Detroit building and fire codes.

Fay said the state was not dissatisfied with the condition of the property. The association had improved the property, taken out insurance, eliminated the fire hazard, he said.

Both the association and the state will appeal the ruling.

B. & O. Bowlers Enjoy Banquet

Close To 80 Railroaders Dine On Macaroni, Meat Balls, And Chicken

CHARLES RICHARDS IS TOASTMASTER

Railroading, bowling or eating, the men of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad take them in their stride and on Tuesday night, May 1, the bowlers of the B. & O. Bowling League had for their evening project the annual banquet, held in the Sons of Italy hall on South Mill street.

In railroad language they were "on time" with a heavy load. In bowling language they all scored "strikes".

The dinner was excellent, the speeches were short and snappy, and the tall tales of the bowling prowess of some of the members were highly interesting, when it they were true. It was a fitting finish to a successful season and a harbinger of an even more successful season next year.

Dinner At Seven

At seven o'clock the bowlers, about 20 of them sat down to a meal consisting of macaroni and meat balls, pickled peppers, fried chicken and salad. One frame of that was enough for the hungriest for the plates were piled like a 70 ton gonol. Before eating the crowd sang "America" directed by Hank Carbone, with an orchestra accompanying.

The dinner over, President Tony Ciarella rolled the first speaking frame by welcoming the guests and then introducing Terminal Trainmaster Charles Richards as the toastmaster. After setting the mood of the evening, Mr. Richards introduced Mack McClafferty, general foreman who spoke on the results of the past season. Other speakers were Robert Mackie, John J. McCoy, Earl Richards, Secretary Joe Scungio, Treasurer James Dezenaro, and Scorer Hank Carbone. Brief remarks were made by a number of the guests.

Presents Cup

Jack Gerson was called upon to present the cup he donated to the bowler with the highest individual average of the season. This went to Charles Ross whose average was a snappy 141.23. The team winner was Shenandoah.

President Ciarella took over after Mr. Richards finished his chore as toastmaster and named the captains for the next season.

The balance of the evening was spent in cards, reminiscences and just talk. It was a grand evening and capped a successful season.

Will Manufacture New Golf Balls

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS)—The War Production Board shortly will authorize the manufacture of golf balls for civilians it was learned Tuesday.

A WPB spokesman said that a new order is being issued for the production of special neoprene synthetic rubber to be used for the manufacture of golf balls.

WPB declined to estimate the number of balls which will be available when the program gets under way, probably within the next few days.

Traynor Picks Pirates To Win

Former Pirate Thirdsacker And Manager, Sees Pirates Of 1945 Winning Pennant

ZAK-GIONFRIDDO DUE FOR ARMY

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—(INS)—Pie Traynor, former Pirate manager, was clear out on a limb today with the prediction that the Pittsburgh club will win the National league pennant.

Moreover, Traynor predicted the Cubs pre-seasoned to vie with the Buccaneers to oust the St. Louis Cardinals from league supremacy.

Traynor removed the Cubs from his list of possible pennant winners with the statement, "Good ball clubs don't lose both sons of doubt."

The Cubs lost to Pittsburgh Sunday 6-2 and 5-4. "Pittsburgh lost both games of a Sunday double bill the previous week to the Braves."

Short on Southpaws

The former third sacker said Frankie Frisch's club was short on southpaw pitchers, but still would have eight hurlers, or an adequate wartime staff.

He said the good enough to take the "old car" if Uncle Sam doesn't make any more dents in the roster.

He did not indicate whether the loss of Frank Zak, infielder, and Albert Gionfriddo, outfielder, both of which are scheduled for draft physically, would change his opinion.

The Pirates were scheduled to play a doubleheader with the world champion Cardinals today after a cold weather postponement of their "senior" opener yesterday.

STOCK MARKET OFF FRACTIONS

Market Is Under Some Selling Pressure, Trading Is Only Moderate Today

NEW YORK, May 2.—(INS)—The stock market was under selling pressure today, extending the reaction which started yesterday afternoon.

Although motors and rails showed a tendency to firm, the general list drifted off fractionally. Trading was only moderate, 260,000 shares changing hands in the first hour.

Carrier stocks, opened easier but some issues in the group stiffened. Lackawanna, Baltimore & Ohio and Northern Pacific rallied from opening levels. Chrysler dipped a half cent but came back even soon after. Bethlehem Steel opened 1-4 off and more than doubled the loss before halting. American Can, Douglas Aircraft, Pepsi-Cola, Woolworth, Flintkote and American Locomotive eased. Sears-Robuck and J. I. Case gained. Utilities, oils and coppers were dull and featureless. Early trading found wheat and corn easier while oats and rye advanced fractionally. Big board bond prices were soft. Cotton futures picked up 10 to 15 cents a bale.

RED FORCES NEAR REPORTED SCENE OF
DEATH OF HITLER

and 8,000 captured. South of Berlin another 4,000 Nazis were killed when they tried to escape from their trap to the west.

Restoring Order

Stubborn Nazi resistance blasted the Soviet hope of presenting Marshal Stalin with a May Day gift. But the Soviet flags of the celebrating Russians flew over all but a tiny pocket of the capital.

The Soviet commander already was restoring a semblance of normal life to the occupied parts of the city. Several factories were reopened and 20 hospitals for German wounded put in operation.

The First White Russian army thrust far beyond Berlin to capture Brandenburg, the important rail and highway center 40 miles west of the German capital.

Advance on Rostock

To the north the Second White Russian army advanced on Rostock, last important German Baltic port in Nazi hands. The northern drive, driving westward toward a junction with the British Second army already east of the lower Elbe, was extended to the port of Stralsund in a 19-mile advance by Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's troops.

Rapid gains of the Second and Fourth Ukrainian armies in Czechoslovakia suggested that German defenses all the way to Prague were facing imminent collapse.

Second Ukrainian forces fighting to the east of captured Bruenn swiftly drove the Germans from Vyskov and 12 other occupied towns. Troops on the Fourth Ukrainian front hammered through the eastern Carpathians to capture 18 German strongholds.

At the same time the Russians assembled an enormous air fleet which front dispatches announced would go into action shortly to blast a road through the heart of Bohemia to Prague.

armies driving deeper into Austria. at the same time liberated more and more Allied prisoners of war.

The Tenth Armored Division of the Seventh overran a prison camp at Plansee, southeast of Fussen, freeing former French cabinet ministers and war leaders.

Among the liberated were former Minister of Foreign Affairs Von Delbos, the rightist leader Ybarra-garay, Generals Emil Laura, Jean Houdeon, Eugene Pouches and Generals of Corps Rene de Manes, Louis Feucher and Robert Geannel.

The Americans pushing into Austria south of Fussen found that the southern national redoubt was not any too well defended. Hastily dug-in defenses had been put up but they were being by-passed.

From front reports it was obvious that the German withdrawal was not orderly.

The 44th Division of the Seventh scored a five-mile advance to reach Gutach, 20 miles northeast of Stouphen, important road junction west of Innsbruck.

Other Seventh Army forces pushed into the Fern Pass, 10 miles northeast of Innsbruck.

Farther northeast, Lieut. Gen. Alexander Patch's Third Infantry Division drove 15 miles to the southeast from Munich and reached Aschbach, 15 miles northwest of Rosenheim, a key road and rail center.

Nearing Salzburg

Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army forces drove forward in an area only 20 miles from Linz and 30 miles from Salzburg.

The threat to Linz was intensified by the 11th Armored Division headed toward a junction with Soviet forces closing toward Linz from Vienna.

Other units of the 11th advanced southeast in two columns, one going ahead at least seven miles to reach Cepping, 24 miles northwest of Linz, while the other pushed ahead 10 miles to Mayerof, 20 miles northwest of Linz.

An eight-mile advance was scored by General Patton's troops farther north on a 10-mile front reaching up to the Czechoslovak border at Salnice, 22 miles northeast of Passau, and extending to Sonneu, 14 miles northeast of Passau.

Sgt. M. D. Baughman Is Reported Killed

Air Corps Gunner Previously Reported Missing, Killed In Aircraft Accident

Mr. and Mrs. David E. Baughman of English avenue received a second telegram from the war department stating that their son, Sgt. M. D. Baughman, has been killed in an aircraft accident in the European area. He was previously reported as missing in action.

Sgt. Baughman was a member of the 6th corps and was a top turret gunner and flight engineer on a B-17 Flying Fortress, stationed in England since January 6, 1945.

According to his parents, the last word from him was received on February 24, and at the time he had completed three missions over Germany. Sgt. Baughman was graduated from New Castle high school, class of 1941.

His brother, Pfc. Findley Baughman, is attached to the chemical warfare unit with General Hodges' first army in Germany, where he has been for a year.

He also leaves his parents: two sisters, Betty Mae and Carol Ann, and a brother, Harold Wayne Baughman.

Hailed as a "real find" by J. A. S. Stendall, curator of the Belfast Northern Ireland Museum, is a United States one-cent coin dated 1791. It was discovered in an old house at Cory by Samuel Beggs.

One side is the head of George Washington and the inscription "Washington, President." Every detail of the coin shows plainly.

Constant contact is being made between the three governments, Gen. Eisenhower said, and between supreme Allied headquarters and the Soviet headquarters as well.

"Nothing that either Doenitz or Hummer may say or do can change in any way the agreed operations of the Allied armies," his statement concluded.

Allied Victory In Italy Hailed

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS)—Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew hailed the Allied victory in Italy today as greatly reducing the possibility of die-hard German resistance in the south of the Reich.

Grew also paid tribute to the part that Italian Patriots had played in freeing their country of the German invader.

"The road to the invasion of Austria and southern Germany is now cleared of all opposition, thereby greatly reducing the possibility of prolonged resistance in that area. We hail this triumph of the Allied armies," Grew said.

"The crushing defeat of the German armies in Italy—so effectively aided by the energy, courage and spirit of responsibility of Italian Patriots—brings with it the liberation of northern Italy."

"Italy, which has been fighting the common enemy since 1943, is now rid of the German yoke and soon will be a nation united in fact as well as in purpose under the democratic government of free Italy."

REPORT GIVEN BY

identified, who also was present, added that Hitler was suffering from a brain hemorrhage.

Contradicts Nazi Reports

"Admiral Doenitz's statement therefore that Hitler met a hero's death at his post is in contradiction with the facts given by Hummer and Gen. Schillenburg."

Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander-in-chief of the German fleet, announced over the Hamburg radio yesterday that Hitler had died at his "command post" and issued a proclamation saying that he had assumed powers as fuhrer of the German Reich.

Doenitz said that Germany would continue its fight against bolshevism and would remain at war with the United States and Great Britain so-called "crusade" against Communism.

Shatter Nazi Myth

Gen. Eisenhower's statement was clearly designed to shatter at its inception any Nazi myth that Hitler actually went to his death while leading his troops in battle.

The statement established conclusively that for some time at least before his death, Hitler was a man mortally ill and utterly incapable of carrying out a military mission, much less exercising his civilian duties as chief of the German state.

Gen. Eisenhower emphasized that Doenitz' attempt, in his initial broadcast and his later order of the day to the German army, to "drive a wedge" between the British and Americans on one side and the Russians on the other "will be as completely ineffective as many previous efforts which have been made."

Constant contact is being made between the three governments, Gen. Eisenhower said, and between supreme Allied headquarters and the Soviet headquarters as well.

"Nothing that either Doenitz or Hummer may say or do can change in any way the agreed operations of the Allied armies," his statement concluded.

Senate Group Will Survey Surplus War Materials Overseas

Agency To Dispose Of 100 Billion Dollars' Worth Of Goods Is In Question

By FRANK B. ALLEN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS)—A senate war investigating subcommittee, it was disclosed Tuesday will hurry to Europe very soon after V-E day to look over the vast surplus war property situation.

Sen. Ferguson (R. Mich.), a member of the full committee, said the group plans to send over a subcommittee shortly after hostilities cease.

The committee is still in the surplus property picture and it's going to be in it for a long time," Ferguson added.

As in the trips to North Africa and the Caribbean Islands, the subcommittee will look into what is being done about American interests in the airfields it built, as well as the handling and eventual disposition of war materials.

Ferguson said no one knows how much has been spent on air fields and other installations. No records are available on costs in some cases, he declared.

A committee staff member said Army officials used the figure of a half billion dollars, but added that "it's probably much more."

A problem involved in the eventual disposal of the goods overseas is what agency will handle it, Ferguson said.

A committee investigator pointed out that the overseas surplus is a phase of the task of selling the 100 billion dollars worth of left-over war goods that was not covered in the surplus property legislation.

He explained that the three-man surplus property board, headed by former Sen. Guy Gillette (D. Ia.), which was given the job of formulating rules and supervising the disposal of goods by various agencies, was not given any authority over property overseas.

Lawrence County Farm And Home News

By Extension Representatives, LEWIS C. DAYTON, Agriculture; MISS LAURA PHILLIPPI, Home Economics

SUPPLY OWN LUMBER FROM FARM WOODLOT

Where timber can be processed locally, Lawrence county farmers will aid the war effort and benefit themselves by cutting savings from their woodlots to fill their own needs.

By cutting their own standing timber and milling it locally farmers will release more commercially processed lumber for the war effort and at the same time save up to two-thirds on the cost of shipped-in lumber.

SELECT CALVES AFTER CAREFUL EXAMINATION

Before selecting a heifer calf for rearing, examine her carefully, especially for mammary development. Sometimes teats are abnormally arranged or shaped, or developed to the extent they give milk and mis-shape the udder. Extra teats can be removed easily when the calf is two to six months old by using a sharp knife or shears.

Such an operation, at this age, results in little loss of blood and is not painful to the calf. The teats should be made close and the incision treated with a disinfectant, such as iodine. If iodine is used care must be exercised to keep it off other teats where it could close up the openings.

MOWING LADINO CLOVER SIMPLIER WITH DIVIDER

With more and more Ladino clover being raised in Lawrence county, many farmers can avoid trouble in mowing if they will provide an extension on the dividing board on the end of the cutter. A simple home-made board will divide the clover before it is cut loose, and eliminate much trouble.

Such an extension can be improvised from a round, metal bar, 3/4 to 1 inch in diameter. Lespedeza or pea time guards also can be used for Ladino clover mowing. Reels may be provided, but these will be more costly.

USE CONTRASTING FABRICS TO EXTEND SHORT SUPPLY

Two factors which are keeping the emphasis on clothes on the narrow silhouette and on contrasting materials are the ruling which limits the amount of material to be used and the shortage of fabric.

As you plan your spring sewing, keep in mind the types of costumes which adapt themselves to these requirements. The tunic dress is popular and is perfect for the use of two materials. A plain tunic with a plain skirt or the two made of contrasting plain colors is a good combination.

Because of its success as a wartime fashion, the jumper has become a classic. There is a great variety of designs and an equal variety of blouses that can be worn with it.

Another way to combine materials is to use contrasting fabric insets in a dress. A diagonal inset which includes the shoulder and cap sleeve and extends to the opposite hip line is interesting for the figure of good proportions. A vertical panel inset will accent the slim silhouette and might be used in a reingote, a style that is returning this year. A dress which needs rejuvenation might have new cap sleeves and a wide waist-to-hip section of contrasting new material.

The bolero dress is another suggestion for spring fashions. If the bolero is to be new, make it to go with more than one dress. In fact, the tunic and the bolero may be paired with the same skirt.

Garden Notes

Seedlings, even when started indoors in flats, need to be protected against weeds. As soon as seedlings have sprouted the weeds will be easy to detect, providing the seedlings are in rows.

Once Victory seedlings, started indoors in flats, make their appearance they should be placed where they will receive full light. Leggy seedlings result from lack of light and overwatering.

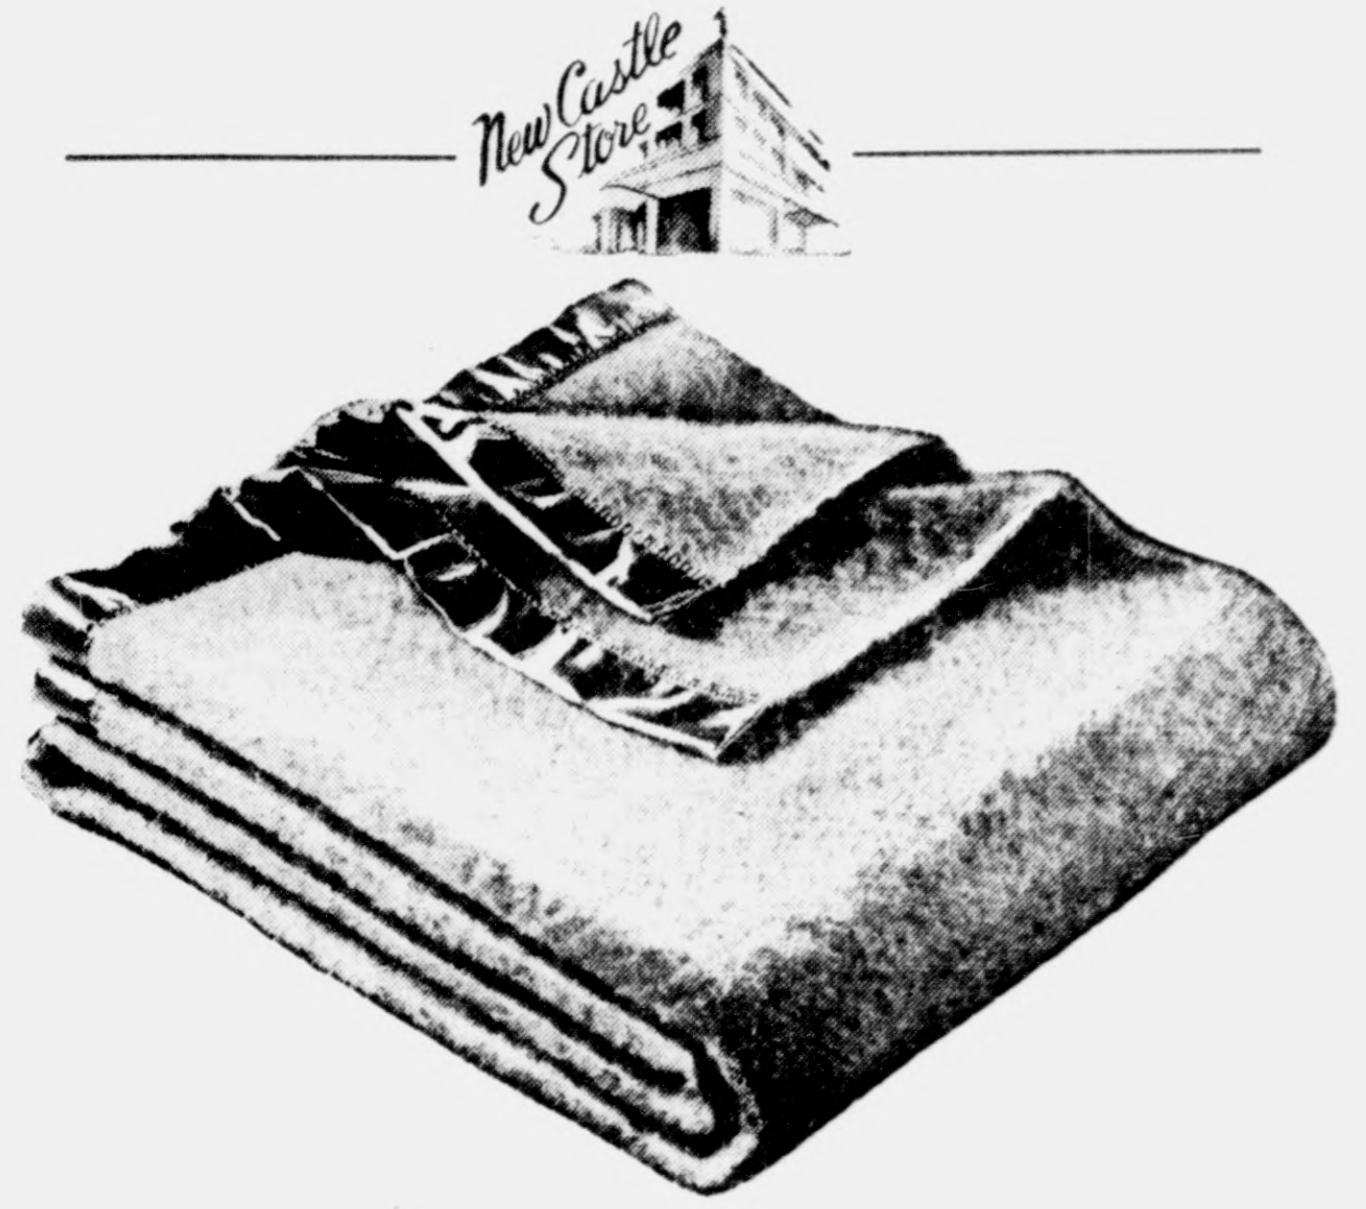

It is best to water flats of seedlings in the morning, so they can go through the night in a dry condition. This helps to prevent "damping off."

Seedlings are best watered by sub-irrigation. Another method is the use of rubber syringe to spray the young plants. This latter method provides a fine mist of water and avoids the danger of washing the soil away from the tiny roots of the plants.

Victory vegetable seeds held over from last year should be tested for "viability," or the ability to germinate, before being planted.

Measures to guard against the waste of Victory seeds, include, not planting too thickly; proper preparation of the soil to receive the seeds; correct planting depth for each type and size of seed, and necessary amount of moisture in the soil to assure germination of seeds.

High Schoolers Call Pittsburgh Council 'Inefficient' Set-Up

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—(INS)—Pittsburgh's city councilmen do not know whether to be surprised, embarrassed, or indignant after they were charged with "inefficiency" by a delegation of high school students.

The group was headed by William Henry, a senior at South Hill high school and vice-president of the school's Civic Club.

When the routine council proceedings were completed, council President Thomas E. Kilgallen blandly made a speech to the group, explaining how the council worked.

It didn't satisfy "Bill" Henry, who stood up and bluntly declared that the council's financial problems were caused by "inefficiency" and that city governments generally were inefficient "unless they have the city manager plan."
